

SPECIAL EDUCATION IEP SERVICES

As a special education management consulting firm we will do what your school district cant. From staff support to occupational therapy, speech pathology, and environmental needs, Expatriate Communications is your go to trusted source for special education.

OVERVIEW

For many parents of students in special education, they find the school districts are not upholding the standards as required for their child's IEP needs and the allocation of special education resources.

We can help remove that burden. As a management consulting firm specialized in special education, we are not an advocacy group or law firm. We promise to do more than simply provide you with information leaving you to do the hard work. We will do the work for you.

WE CAN HELP:

- Ensure your child receives proper supplemental services and aids needed to complete their IEP plan successfully.
- Make sure your child receives proper transition services and that their postsecondary annual goals are created.

Providing a Professional Solution For Your Child

Expatriate Communications does all of the heavy lifting, paperwork, and follow-ups needed to ensure that your child receives exceptional and fair special education. We are not a law firm, nor an advocacy group, we will not provide you with the steps and leave you with the burden of completion, follow-up, and the tasks of trying to find who and where to reach out to for your child's needs. We will do the work for you and that is our promise to keep special education simple.

- Establish the means for proper presentation of subject matters per individual child's needs, proper staff support, support for environmental needs, and fair access to various classroom settings.

- We can create and implement your child's individual educational plan (IEP).

Outside of supplementary services, our team will also ensure program modifications and professional development occurs when needed to ensure your child receives the best methods to assist them
